

Sylvia Broadbent Papers

Biographical Note

Sylvia Broadbent (1932-2015) was born in London in 1932 but later moved to Carmel, California where she graduated high school at sixteen. She then went on to study Anthropology and Pre-Med at University of California, Berkeley and graduated in 1952. She went on to get her AA, BA, and Ph. D degrees in Anthropology and Linguistics at University of California, Berkley.

While working on her Ph. D she conducted research on the Miwok Language, but once she completed her degree she moved to Bogotá, Colombia to do research on Chibcha (Muisca) Civilization. She was briefly a professor at Northwestern and Barnard College of Colombia until 1964. Then she joined the faculty at Universidad de Los Andes teaching Chibcha culture and history. Dr. Broadbent then became a Professor of Anthropology at University of California, Riverside in 1966. At UC Riverside Dr. Broadbent taught linguistics, language and culture, archaeology, prehistory, and symbolism until retiring in 1992.
